LENGTH OF THE WAR AND SOME OTHERS

How long will the war last? it's a fool question of course, because there is no certain answer. But when there is an unanswerable queson it is the custom to look up prece

CAUSE OF DEFICIT

The New York Orosa, an Republican paper of standing en notice of the attempt to new tariff law responsible for alle ficiency in the revenues of the gov

"Nothing could be more unfair than .531 to attribute the present collapse of 434 Treasury receipts to the tariff law, and nothing could be more foolish than to inject a tariff argument into any special measure aimed to provide more revenue in the emergency which has

.577 grown out of the war in Europe, Anybody with the very least gumption 529 knows that, since the war struck di-526 rectly and almost entirely at the reve-466 nue produced from tariff duties, the .462 bigger the proportion of receipts from .454 such tariff duties had been the worse .434 the revenues would have been hurt. Our old tariff revenues, therefore, would have been more severely cut by the war than these. The internal rev enue duties, for the most part, are still left, the income tax revenues are still left; it is only the tariff revenues that are gone. If there hadn't been anything but tariff revenues there wouldn't have been anything at all left. The big thing used to be the tariff revenues.

"If the ships to carry the traffic can pe put into service obviously we shall be doing all selling and no buying; so that if the foreign markets are open to us and if we have the ships to get into them, we not only shall save our favorable balance of foreign trade, af-ter it seemed utterly lost to us under the new tariff, but again pile it high in our favor.

"Thus it is, from every point of view, that the tariff of last month goes off the boards as an argument for any party or any faction and must stay off the boards as long as the war lasts. For, while all the nations of Europe are at one another's throats, instead of raising and manufacturing products to sell to us, along with the rest of the world, the tariff, which was designed and put into operation to let the products of those nations into the United States, doesn't mean and can't mean what it did mean only a few days ago."

BRITISH INDIAN ARMY.

The Indian army comprised (1907-08 a total of 227,714 troops, of whom only 73,947 were British.

It was from this army that a large force was rushed to France to assist the British and French in their fighting against the Germans.

However, there is in addition a reserve numbering 34,846 men, volunteers numbering 34,962, a frontier militia (including the Khyber Rifles) of Burma) totaling about 22,000. Still another force not included in the above are the Imperial Service troops, raised by the various reigning princes and trained by British offiers. They number about 18,000 in allitary force aggregating about 100, 000 men but these are of varying de grees of efficiency.

The expense of the Indian military establishment (1907-08) was in exces
